

THE UNIVERSITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA
PHARMACEUTICAL SCIENCES

celebrate research 2012

Systems Health

Taking personalized medicine beyond the genome

The Faculty of Pharmaceutical Sciences at UBC is pleased to present a special seminar event as part of Celebrate Research Week 2012:

Systems Health: Taking personalized medicine beyond the genome

Monday, March 5, 2012

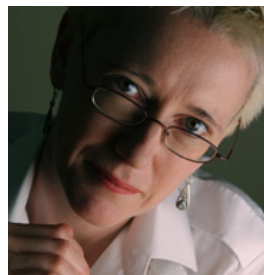

1:00 - 4:00 pm (Reception to follow)

Telus Theatre, The Chan Centre for the Performing Arts
6265 Crescent Rd, Vancouver, BC V6T 1Z1

Featuring a panel of internationally distinguished speakers, Systems Health explores how personalized medicine is evolving into a holistic view of health care encompassing a wide range of biological phenomena.

Please RSVP by March 2, 2012 to Dr. Barb Conway at baconway@mail.ubc.ca or 604-822-2390. Seating is limited.

For more informaton, visit www.pharmacy.ubc.ca.

The epigenetics revolution
– why our genetic code is a script and not a blueprint

Dr. Nessa Carey

Exploration and recent findings from the human microbiome

Dr. Karen Nelson

Phenotypic flexibility and systems health in practice:
towards P4 medicine in type 2 diabetes

Dr. Ben van Ommen

a place of mind